Freshmen

Covenant's large freshman class took part in many new experiences that previous classes had not enjoyed. Their home tech class gave the students many chances to try out unperfected skills such as cooking and sewing. The trip to the sewage treatment plant proved to be a unique experience as well. Sam Van Zyl sums up this year by saying, "The best part was being able to get to know everyone quickly."

It is pear canning day for the freshmen in Home Tech. Amanda, Laura and Jenna kept busy with all the steps needed to can pears.

Michael and Adam's guillotine for Wold History is up and running. Thankfully it was only used on gourds.

The freshmen gathered, peeled, canned, and washed all of their pears and ended up with eighty-five jars to sell.

Sophomores

This year the class enjoyed having another new member, Callie Herz, making the total number of class members twentv-eight.

Juniors Class of 2007

In the midst of searching for a college or a car and doing loads of homework. the juniors all had an interesesting year. There were many different events that surprised and challenged them. When Alex's brother Nick died, the class pulled together to support him and his famly. The iuniors also seemed to have a problem with procrastintion and spent many late hours finishing chemistry and English homework. Several juniors supported Dan De Graff when he shaved his head for St. Baldrick's Day to support cancer victims. The year was a learning experience for the juniors inside and outside the classroom.

Faculty and Staff

This year the faculty at Covenant grew. The faculty welcomed two new teachers, Mr. Joe Venema, and Mrs. Kris Rost. Mr. Venema taught History, and Bible courses. Mrs. Rost taught Art. Mr. Todd Nanninga got a new friend for his classroom, a python. He held contest to see what the snake's name would be. The name that won was Monty the Python. We said goodbye to several of the faculty members this year.

Spirit Week

How does it feel to eat lunch in the 80's? Adrianna Oudman found this out as she microwaved her lunch while dressed in lots of blue on 80's Day.

Twin Day takes careful planning. This was easy for sophomore Danny and freshman Kyle. These boys went all out with their unique costumes, and provided much delight to their classmates.

Elton John makes a guest appearance through senior Adam Van Der Molen on Celebrity Day. The purple suit provided no questions as to his identity, but a few did wonder where Adam goes to shop.

Having the largest class provided the freshmen with the opportunity to wow the judges with many different actions in one cheer. Some students were hulahooping while others spelled out KNIGHTS.

Teachers always take their jobs seriously, even when it comes down to judging the classes on their cheers. Mr. Alphenaar, Mr. Vredevoogd, Mr. Nanninga and Mr. Venema proudly show their results.

"Bring it on, cheerleaders!" Nick DeVries shows off his basketball skills by taking on Sarah, Megan, and Angela during the game that featured five 1-armed varsity boys against the entire squad of cheerleaders.

"What other words can we spell?" CHAOS was the result seniors Adam, Hannah, Brittney, Jen, and Kiersten came up with in their spirit day t-shirts. The enthusiastic senior class took first place in the pep rally.

"Break it down!" The juniors go crazy in the cheer competition for the judges on Friday afternoon. Their enthusiasm was appreciated, but they did not get quite enough points to win.

Superhero Day is a blast for Batman and Cat Woman. Seniors Sarah, Kyle, Jen and Megan posed for a picture before the start of Economics. Even Superheroes had to spend some time in regular classes.

All dressed in black, the sophomore class assembles into a pyramid for their class cheer. It took a lot of planning to get everyone color coordinated for the day and learning a class cheer took practice.

Samantha, Laura, Lauren and Kelli wrap lockers. The north hallway won the Deck-the-Halls contest.

Student Council. Headed by president Hannah Johnson, vice president Brittney Jacobus, and faculty sponsor Mr. Venema, the Student Council held many exciting activities for the student body to participate in and enjoy.

A competetion between the two halls that started in the fall continued throughout the year in the various Council was encouraging to all.

It wasn't just another year thanks to activities including a field day, a Christmas decorating contest and other games. Student Council also held the annual fall banquet with the theme of a Hoedown

"Blessed be the name of the Lord, blessed be Your name ... "The student body could often be heard singing this song or one of many others. during the chapel times that occurred twice a week. A praise band made up of students enhanced the time with contemporary music and hymns. The chapel committee worked hard to organize events throughout the year, including the 30 Hour Famine (World Vision), a morning of seminars led by area ministers, Carpenter's Tools. a high school group from Chattanooga. TN, and a special chapel for the DMC students on Good Friday, Guest speakers also played a big role in the chapels. "I think chapels were well planned and well rounded overall," said freshman Corinne Beezehold. "I like being able to worship God in so many different ways as a whole student body."

Book Club

What do you get when you cross book lovers with free food? Covenant Book Club! Every month, several students, Mrs. Maureen Birkett, and Mr. Curt Vredevoogd gathered in the school library to talk about the book that was assigned for the month. Each member took a turn bringing in food that had to do with the book. For example, when the group read The Grapes of Wrath, Cindy Friend brought in cornbread because the Joad family ate a lot of cornbread. Some of the other books the club read included Night by Elie Wiesel and The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy by Douglas Adams. Overall, the club was a big hit among the members. Being involved in the club was a wonderful way to have fun and to read some really great books.

Reading silently to himself, freshman Robert De Graff is trying to remember his favorite part of the book at a meeting in the school library. Members not pictured on this page: Kiersten Friend, Angela Hubers, Nathan Hubers, Matt Trocha, Cindy Friend, Tiffany Tazelaar.

Using the laptop at a meeting, Cindy Friend and Amanda Hoekstra work together to complete a page.

Yearbook

Full of new faces this year, the yearbook committee had to work hard to get through the difficulties of putting together a good vearbook. Editor positions were taken by the four seniors on the staff, and the committee was once again headed by Mrs. Patty Wetselaar. Some new aspects of creativity and organization were added to the committee this year. The staff was able to have its own workspace in the upstairs room. A new cabinet allowed the photo editors to sort and spread pictures out. With the help of a new laptop, many of the yearbook pages were able to be done directly on the computer, saved, and sent in. A highlight of the year was organizing an Alumni basketball game during Christmas break, This served as a fundraiser that made the goal of including color pages a reality.

Adviser Mrs. Patty Wetselaar and business editor Kiersten Friend discuss the money matters at a meeting on Monday night. Selling ads and keeping track of money is an important part of putting together the yearbook.

Brittney, Jacqueline, and Caitlin were all ready to dance and did not mind showing others how to do it.

Ryan (above) and Laura (above right) were both into the dances and by the end of the night knew all of them.

Nick, Kyle and Adam all had a great night of fun.

Everyone had a really great time eating and showing off their western outfits to their friends.

Robert den Dulk tries his best to eat his pie the fastest in order to win the contest and get the prize pumpkin.

Hoedown fall banquet

The fall banquet had a western theme, complete with apple bobbing, a pie eating contest, line dancing, and lots of great food. Everyone got into the western spirit by dressing up in some colorful combination of cowboy hats, jeans, denim skirts, cowboy boots, western shirts, or bandanas.

People got really involved in the line dancing and the games. Prizes were awarded for best dressed, pie eating contest winner, best dancer, and others. Everyone who went enjoyed the hoedown. Student Council once again put on a great banquet.

Erin, Lauren, and Jenna all enjoy line dancing together. The cowboy boots stayed off the gym floor, but the rest of the Western looks plus time spent with friends made for an evening of fun.

Matt Trocha won the prize pumpkin for being the best dressed cowboy.

Tomorrow's Monday

The November 11 and 12 production of "Tomorrow's Monday" brought a new perspective to Covenant theater. The plot followed the story of a single family torn apart by differing perspectives. As each character struggled to find an identity, the family worried about what would come tomorrow.

The Importance of Being Earnest

While eating a cucumber sandwich, Lane and Algernon talk about the quality of wine in a bachelor's establishment.

Lady Bracknell accepts a cup of tea from her nephew Algernon while asking him for help with her music program.

"The Importance of Being Earnest," presented on March 23 and 24, gave the audiences a good laugh. Jack and Algernon, two bachelors, attempted to gain the affections of Gwendoline and Cecily falsely by each taking the name of Ernest. Trouble brewed when the girls found out the truth, but in the end they all learned the true importance of being earnest.

Carrying trays of tea cakes and bread and butter, the Servant and Merriman set up for tea in the garden.

The Knight's Men's Soccer Team had a great season. Coached by Malcolm DeKryger and assisted by Curt Vredevoogd, the Knights outscored their opponents 85 to 31 throughout the season. Junior Nick DeVries led the team in scoring with a total of 35 goals, and junior Sam Wetselaar put in 19. With these and others the guys had a very positive season. As the season began in the fall, the boys voted for team captains. Nick DeKryger and Ryan Handtke stepped up and provided the leadership necessary for a growing team. One of the most memorable moments of the whole season was the ribbon cutting ceremony for the new soccer field. Up until this year the team had been hosting home games at the nearby Field of Dreams. This new field was completed in time for the last half of this season, and was often heard being praised as the best field in the league. With all of these positive elements, it is no wonder that the Knight's soccer team had a very successful and beneficial learning season.

"It is a beautiful game," says Coach Wetselaar when asked as to why he decided to help coach again this season. But getting a group of girls to understand this beauty and to cooperate as a team can be an entirely different matter. The Lady Knights were struck hard when their only senior, Brittney Jacobus was injured early on in the season, and therefore forced the underclassmen to step up to leadership positions. This season the emphasis was on teamwork, and Coach Clarence Oudman encouraged training in different positions. Each player is important especially with a team of only 15. Although not a winning season for the Lady Knights, it was a profitable, learning season with bright hopes and expectations for next year.

Everyone learned to block at the net, dive for the ball, and overhand serve. The varsity team also learned to use the libero positon for the first time. The libero. played by Sarah Hoek, is a defensive specialist who subs in for various players in the back row to help dig hits. The JV only had two returning players, but the new and the old meshed well on the court. Everyone on both teams was able to raise her serving, digging, and spiking percentages which was a great encouragement to the team. Both teams played their hardest, learned a lot about being a team and had a growing season.

Sara is ready to get the ball back into Thirteen girls made the commitment to play basketball. The team was made up of 4 seniors, 2 juniors, 2 sophomores, and 5 freshmen. Coaching the team were Mr. Joe Venema and Mr. Steve Bos. Both the varsity and the junior varsity teams had successful seasons with the varsity compiling a record of 10-6 and the junior varsity a record of 3-2. Among the highlights of the year were a 14 point victory over Trinity South Bend (the team that finished runner-up at state) and a come-from-behind 2 point victory over Lakeland Christian, Bizarre moments included the team receiving a technical foul because some of the team had taken off their shoes on the bench.

Sarah Hoek increases the score as she goes to the free throw line. Coach Venema stated that it was was a very enjoyable season due to the unity and positive attitudes of the players as well as the outstanding leadership of the seniors on the team.

Head Coach Brian Alphenaar and assistant coach Jeff Anderson watch the varsity boys play. A successful season is the result of good coaching.

As the starting line-ups are announced, Dan Bykerk, Nick DeVries, and Adam Van Der Molen get pumped up at center court.

It was a basketball season to remember. It was the first season with enough guys for try-outs, so it was the first season with cuts. It was the first time someone dunked during a game. It was the first time the boys reached the state championship. Led by only one senior, the underclassmen carried the team through a very successful season and are preparing for more great basketball in the years to come.

The entire school community rallied around the boys varsity team as they took first in regionals, and then as they went on to play in the Indiana Christian State Tournament Series in Indianapolis. The Knights began the first quarter with a good lead, and the huge crowd of fans that drove 2 hours to see this game were on their feet with pride. The other team pulled ahead and kept that lead to the end, but the enthusiam and pride of the fans remained at a high level to the end of the game, and the end of a memorable season.

State Game

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders got off to a great start with a bake sale and car wash to raise more your the purchase of more uniforms. At the games they entertained the crowds with two new dances and more crowd cheers.

The cheerleaders worked to teach the student body some of their cheers when the basketball team went to state, and they helped encourage the team during the regular season.

They were once again coached by Debbie Wensel, and the team captains were seniors Jennifer Dekker and Megan Wilson.

Left: Along with regular cheers, the girls learned a few dance routines that they performed during halftime of home games.

Left: One way to get the crowd involved in the cheers is to throw balls at them! Jen, Angela, Sarah and Kerri get the crowd involved at a home game.

Danny Glemby had his first year in track as a sophomore. He represented CCHS in relays, shotput, and discus.

Sam Wetselaar was the long distance runner for the men's team. He was part of many relays, and he helped the 3200m and 1600m relay teams win.

In the relay meet Covenant participated in, the women's sprint medley team came in first with Betsy Zandstra and Jenna DeKryger running the 100m, Elise Piekarczyk running the 200m and Erin Long running the 400m sprints.

Adam VanderMolen takes flight over the sand in the long jump.

Jessica Dahm puts full effort into her shotput turn.

TRACK and FIELD

This year's track team was alive and running. The new record board posted in the school was constantly changing because at least one record was broken at every meet.

Covenant was involved in a relay meet where the girls 4x400 meter got first, a wonderful upset. The last meet was unfortunately during very blustery weather, and after having three of the five teams decide to leave halfway through it was cancelled. Covenant, however, was ready to stay through it all.

As none of the team were seniors, there should be a great group returning to the track and field team next year.

Band

Jessica Wetselaar, Adam Van Der Molen, Robert De Graff, Back rour. Mrs. Lois DeVries, Cindy Friend, Lauren Kermelis, Jelf Hosey, Nick DeVries, Nor Petruderi. Laura Turngren.

Band was a lot of fun. They went on a field trip to see the symphony, learned to play milk jugs, and participated in a band festival with DMC and Crown Point Christian. This year was also exciting because the band was able to buy a euphonium and a set of chimes. These definitely added a lot to the band.

The percussion section covers many different instruments. Cindy plays the triangle, Nick the timpani, and Craig, Steve and Jeff keep the beat with milk jugs.

Steve plays his guitar during the song, "In The Mood." This year the band did a number of jazz pieces which required some extra instruments.

With only two clarinets this year, much was expected of each player. Adrianna Oudman reherses a song during the regular morning band period

Eight o'clock band class is an interesting twist in the schedule. Jessica Jonkman rather enjoyed playing her bass clarinet to start each day.

Choir spreads Christmas cheer at the Christmas concert. Songs from this concert included "The Hallelujah Chorus" and "I'm so Baroque at Christmas."

In choir this year, students had a great time learning the music. They performed four concerts at school and one at a local church in December. The choir this year is the largest that Covenant has ever had with over half of the school participating in it.

Choir members Brad, Doug, Andrew, Phil, Olivia, Caitlin and Jessica are thoughtful as they begin their final number of the spring concert.

All the hard work and practice pays off for students Nathan. Kyle, Jen, Tiffany, Laura and Callie as they sing, "Nearer, Still Nearer" at the spring concert.

Choir

Choir director Mr. Ken Tazelaar loves to provide challenges to his students ranging from gospel numbers to songs written in foreign languages. He always provided interesting tidbits of information to the audience at each concert.

(Far left) Covenant students are required to take two years of music credits. Freshmen Hannah Ford and Lindsey Olthof learn the soprano part for the Christmas concert.

English, Spanish, P.E., Computer

Eager and ready to participate in class, Dave Schurman makes a point about the story his English class read.

After quickly finishing his English homework, Luke DeBoer checks his assignment notebook for more homework to do as other students in the class finish the English assignment.

The Academic Side

Math, Science, Home Tech, Shop

Working on another Home Tech project, Sydney and Rebecca peel pears so that the students in the kitchen will be able to can them for future use.

Trying to show the effects of a vacuum to the general science class, Mr. Nanninga does an experiement on Luke DeBoer. More than one freshman was able to experience the strange sensation.

As Alex and Ryan show at the left, the first semester shop class spent its time building a shed. Once the shed was completed, it was sold, and the class began building a garage.

Using their knowledge of engines. Kyle and Megan Wilson work to fix one.

The shop class, taught by Mr. Kamminga, builds a garage.

Torquing the engine, Mario works hard in shop class.

The Academic Side History, Art, Bible

During art class, the freshmen increase their drawing skills with lots of practice. They drew a range of different objects, from sea shells and bones to self portraits. Learning how to shade their drawings became a new accomplishment for many of them.

Above: Covenant's sports programs continue to grow along with the school. This spring a Golf Club began. Members pictured: Kyle Maatman, Daniel Glemby, Dave Schurman, Ryan Handtke, Steve Handtke, Nathan Warzak, Kyle Beedle, Doug Hoekstra, Kirk Maatman, and Nathan Hubers.

Left and below: A new soccer field was prepared at the end of the summer by Shamrock Sod and many other willing hands. It was exciting to see the grass take root and be ready for a brief dedication service halfway through the soccer season.
